Millennium Transit Services, LLC will showcase the newest generation of T-Drive RTS at APTA's EXPO 2011 coming up October 3-5, 2011 in New Orleans. EXPO is public transportation's premier showcase of technology, products and services.

Millennium Transit Services (MTS) was formed with the vision and purpose to develop, manufacture and distribute advanced transportation products on a worldwide basis. Millennium will focus on industrial design, mechanical engineering as well as alternative fuel applications.

As a closely held, private, US owned company; Millennium Transit is committed to the heavy-duty transit industry for the long term. Therefore, we can elect to make investments today that will provide customers with immediate features and benefits, even when this means a longer payback to Millennium. The company has retained a seasoned group of executives to lead the business. Senior leadership has specific, yet extensive, experience within the municipal transit market. This management team is solely responsible for directing the future of the RTS.

The Millennium team is focusing its efforts to immediately secure RTS Legend and RTS Express high floor model orders for production 2012, as well as accepting orders for the new RTS Extreme product in the near future.

MTS is committed to exceptional operational efficiency throughout the business. In concert with this strategy, the production line process will be drastically changed from the previous ownership. This will offer more efficient production flow, increased job enrichment with more responsibility available to each individual employee and overall team approach to the completion of the final product. This proven production process encourages cross training and a more experienced and diverse employee base.

"Texas A&M Transportation Services is pleased to have one of our Millennium RTS' at APTA. Our employees love to drive them and our students love to ride in them." Ken Kimball - Assistant Director
